Mandatory National Child Safety Training

Dear Educators,

Following on from communications issued late last year, the Australian Government Department of Education is preparing to introduce Mandatory National Child Safety Training, with implementation scheduled to commence from 27 February 2026.

The training is being developed by the Queensland Government and the Australian Centre for Child Protection. It will be available on Geccko. Geccko is the Australian Government Department of Education's online learning platform for the ECEC sector.

There will be Foundation and Advanced training modules. The Foundation training will be available from 27 February 2026. Advanced modules will be available in July 2026. Training is free.

Action required

You will need a Geccko account to access and complete the training.

To ensure personal training completions can be tracked and reported correctly, all users must have an individual account using a personal email. Generic or shared emails are not permitted.

To access and complete the training, all users must have an individual Geccko account by using the below link, we have also included links for support if needed.

We highly encourage educators to set up their individual account now in preparation for the February start date for access.

Register for Gecko Account

Support Tools

Kind Regards
Enhance Team